Men, Sex & Money® ~ Design Your Life Your Way

As women, being deeply related, expressing ourselves freely, and being fulfilled are the very fiber of our being, our essential nature. Yet we often compromise our deepest desires, sell ourselves short or simply don't ask for what we want even in our most intimate relationships. This can be especially true regarding sex, money and the men in our lives. In school we learned everything academic, yet little time or attention was devoted to teaching us the communication skills necessary for healthy relationships.

This program, offered in various formats ranging from a single keynote to a 3 day seminar to a 6 month in depth program, addresses the core issue of women clarifying what they truly desire, then learning how to communicate with the men in their lives, leading to more fulfilling relationships.

Women leave this rich, interactive conversation filled with heart and humor:

- Feeling deeply seen and connected to the other women participants
- Having clarity about their criteria for intimate relationships
- Knowing three communication skillsets designed to make conversation with men easy
